AN

ALMANACK

FOR THE YEAR OF OUR LORD

1782.

BEING THE SECOND AFTER BISSEXTILE OR LEAP YEAR, AND SIXTH OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE.

CALCULATED FOR THE MERIDIAN OF BOSTON, LAT. 42. DEG. 25. MIN. NORTH.

By DANIEL GEORGE, Philomath.

How vain and fruitless is th attempt of Man,
—The great Perfections of a GOD to scan!
Who rules the World with an unbounded sway,
And shines, tho' darkness intercept the Day!
Before all Time he was; before the Sun
Rejoic'd through Heav'n his mighty course to run;
He gave the wide Creation inst nt Birth,
And fix'd the Pillars of the floating Earth.

NEWBURY-PORT: Printed and Sold by JOHN MYCALL. Sold also by the Book-Sellers and Shop-Keepers.

And I always contrive to ſlip ſoftly away.
On the tops of high trees I ſometimes reſide,
When I tremble with fear, tho' I ſparkle with pride.
I delight in a river, but this I muſt ſay,
I ſeldom adventure to ſail on the ſea.
The ſtars are my friends, but as for the ſun,
With precipitation his ardour I ſhun,
I'm fear'd by the ancient, and lov'd by the boy,
Who rides on my back, and beholds me with joy.

N B The Anſwer may be expected in next Year's Almanack.

An Epigram.

CRIES Celia to a Rev'rend Dean,
What reaſon can be giv'n,
Since marriage is a holy thing,
That there is none in Heav'n?
There are no women, he reply'd:
She quick returns the jeſt,
Women there are, but I'm afraid
They cannot find a Prieſt.

The marvellous Story-teller.

ONE who had travelled as far as Perſia, ſpoke to his man John, as he was returning home, telling him how neceſſary it was that a traveller ſhould draw things beyond the life, otherwiſe he could not hope for that reſpect from his countrymen which otherwiſe he might have. But at the ſame time John, ſaid he, whereſoever I ſhall dine or ſup, keep you cloſe to my chair, and if I very much exceed the bounds of truth, punch me behind, that I may correct myſelf. It happened on a day, that he dined with a certain gentleman, who ſhall be nameleſs, where he affirmed, that he ſaw a monkey in the iſland of Borneo, which had a tail threeſcore yards long. John punch'd him. I am certain it was fifty at leaſt. John punch'd again. I believe, to ſpeak within compaſs, for I did not meaſure it, it muſt have been forty. John gave him t'other touch. I remember it lay over a quickſet hedge, and therefore could not be leſs than thirty. John at him again. I could take my oath it was twenty. This did not ſatisfy John. Upon which the maſter turned about in a rage, and ſaid, would you have the monkey without any tail at all?

How to cure the Itch.

MIX a little fine bay ſalt, and as much flour of brimſtone, with a little ſweet oil; rub it well in the palms of the hands, and dry it in. It commonly cures in three days.

To cure the Rheumatiſm.

DRINK very largely of warm water in bed; or, tar water, morning and evening.

To cure Hoarſeneſs.

RUB the ſoles of the feet before the fire, with garlick and lard, well beaten together, over night. The hoarſeneſs will be gone next day.

AN HYMN TO PROVIDENCE.

ETERNAL wisdom, sov'reign care,
Of universal nature hear!
Accept my humble strains, and grant
What e'er thou know'st I really want.
Just is the homage, which I pay
To thy supreme, unbounded sway,

Moves, and proclaims its Maker's praise.
The artist in his work appears,
And humble man adores and fears,
While seraphs, with ecstatic fire,
Burn, sing, and ever rapt admire.
No less thy wisdom is display'd
Where moral scenes require thy aid:

In nature's Drama, ev'ry part
Is acted with the niceſt art;
Agents, or rational or not,
Conſpire to weave the cur'ous plot;
Mind acts on matter, this on that;
Poor mortals little know for what!

Let fools project, and madmen rave,
The wise contrive, and misers save,
The good submit, the crafty cheat;—
No scheme shall ever thine defeat:
Passions and projects all agree,
With var'ous views to work for thee;

All must promote the grand design,
And to one centre still incline.
Surprizing parts! stupendous whole!
Wisdom too high for human soul!
To see, through all extent of space,
Each diff'ring nature keep its place,
Perform its part, and work its end,

XII. DECEMBER hath 31 Days. 1782.

And all around, and all above,
In perfect harmony and love;
To thee, for all we are and have;
To thee, who to the last canst save,
Let men and angels join to raise
An everlasting song of praise.

An Anecdote of the King of Prussia.

AS great a philoſopher as this prince is, he has moments of turbulent paſſion. An inſtance of this came to the writer's knowledge from his own lips. He is very fond of muſic, and is a very good performer upon the German flute; nevertheleſs, during laſt war, meeting with a very hard concerto, which he could not go through to his ſatisfaction, he was ſo enraged that he broke his flute to pieces. However, recollecting himſelf in a few moments he gathered up the fragments, and committed them to the flames, that even his attendants might not diſcover his weakneſs, ſaying at the ſame time. "How my enemies would triumph over me, if they knew this!"

Of Philip II. of Spain.

PHILIP the ſecond, walking one day alone in one of the cloiſters of the convent of the Eſcurial, an honeſt tradeſman, ſeeing the door open, went in. Tranſported with admiration of the fine paintings with which that houſe was adorned, he addreſſed himſelf to the King, whom he took for one of the ſervants of the convent, and deſired him to ſhew him the paintings, and explain the ſubjects of them. Philip, with all the humility and condeſcenſion of a lay-brother, conducted him through the apartments, and gave him all the ſatisfaction he could deſire. At parting, the ſtranger took him by the hand, and ſqueezing it affectionately, ſaid, "I am much obliged to you, friend: I live at "St. Martin's, and my name is Michael Bambis: If you "ſhould chance to come my way, and call upon me, you "will find a glaſs of good wine at your ſervice." "And "my name," ſaid the pretended ſervant, "is Philip the "ſecond, and if you will call upon me at Madrid, I will "give you a glaſs of as good."

Of Casimir II. King of Poland.

WHILE Caſimir was Prince of Sandomir, he won at play, all the money of one of his nobility, who, incenſed at his ill fortune ſtruck the Prince a blow on the ear, in the heat of paſſion. He fled immediately from juſtice; but being purſued and overtaken was condemned to loſe his head; but the generous Caſimir determined otherwiſe. "I am not ſurpriſed, ſaid he, at the gentleman's conduct; for not having it in his power to revenge himſelf on fortune, no wonder he ſhould attack her favourite." After which he revoked the ſentence, returned the nobleman his money. and declared that he alone was faulty, as he encouraged by his example a pernicious practice, that might terminate in the ruin of hundreds of the people.

THOUGHTS and MAXIMS upon ſeveral Subjects.

THE way to grow rich, is not to neglect ſmall matters; the way to be well ſerved, to pay well, and examine what you buy; to be reſpected by ſervants, never to be familiar with them; and, to be reſpected by your acquaintance, to reſpect yourſelf.

To be eſteemed a good neighbour, do little friendly offices with a good grace, and gratefully repay the ſmalleſt favour; to pleaſe in converſation, learn to hear; and know when to ſpeak; and, to correct your foibles, mark their effects in others.

Shew that you love your religion by making its precepts the rule of your conduct; but leave to others to wrangle, and diſpute, and fight for opinions.

Books are uſeful monitors, or dangerous guides: Read to improve your mind, not to kill time.

Benevolence is the light and joy of a good mind: It is more bleſſed to give than to receive.

APPROVED REMEDIES.

How to cure an Ague.

GO into a cold bath juſt before the cold fit: Or, take a handful of groundſel, ſhred it ſmall, put it into a paper bag, four inches ſquare, pricking that ſide which is to be next the ſkin, full of holes. Cover this with a thin linen, and wear it on the pit of the ſtomach, renewing it two hours before the fit: Or apply a handful of yarrow in like manner; or a large onion ſlit: Or drink a quart of cold water, juſt before the cold fit; then go to bed and ſweat.

To cure St. Anthony's Fire.

DRINK a pint of ſea-water every morning for ſeven days. It ſeldom fails.

To cure the Aſthma.

TAKE a ſpoonful of nettle juice, mixt with clarified honey, every morning: Or take an ounce of quick-ſilver every morning, and a ſpoonful of the gas of ſulpher, in a large glaſs of ſpring-water, at five in the evening, and at bed-time, 'till you are well.

To cure Baldneſs.

RUB that part morning and evening, with onions, 'till it is red; and rub it afterwards with honey.
